

Transportation Museum Standard Tube Map

Which line to use? Red or Blue?

Red Line passengers are usually people that want to really take time, explore and discover what the museum has to offer with it's special exhibits, main exhibits, and other features.

Blue Line passengers sometimes just want to make a beeline for the games—and that's great! Pass the Amtrak Cafe, which is serving food and drinks, and head outside for a LEGO London City, and Outdoor Games. Don't forget the Bus Driver computer game at Autos & Buses!

You can choose whichever line you like, or you can alternate between the two. Have fun!

What is this map?

This map is a Transportation Museum map, that shows the exhibits, special exhibits, and other amenities (such as a Cafe and Restrooms). You can use the two lines to help you go around the museum. It's just like a walking tour around the museum.

What to do...

See the backside for more information on what is to do at each stop.

Transportation Museum Standard Tube Map

Entrance

- Write your name on the windows

Amtrak

- Pick up your map and information
- The Amtrak Exhibit—Replica Rooms, Collectibles, Schedules, Trails and Rails, Fire up the Steam Engine game, Train Models

Trains

- Rolling Resistance Exhibit—How does different weight affect speed?
- Transit Collectibles and Bus Models

Planes

- Restroom
- Flight to London Exhibit

London Exhibit

- London Exhibit—Schedules, CCTV, London's Travelers Game, Mind the Gap Recordings

Indoor Games

- Eyeball Toss
- Hexbug Racings
- Spoof Tube Announcements
- British → English Words

Autos and Buses

- How are Streets Named Exhibit
- Bus Driver Game

Amtrak Cafe

- Amtrak Cafe—Lunch, Snacks, Drinks
- Collect your Games Prizes here

Lawn Games

- Make your own Giant Bubbles

Train Games

- Derailed
- Thomas the Train Engine Track

Slot Car Racing

- Grapefruit 500
- Tunnel Building

Or take the Tube.

